Matteson Man Killed On J Road

Frankfort Twp. Assessed Valuation $1,317,490

Assessor Joseph Kohl of Frankfort township has just released the following interesting figures on valuations in Frankfort township:

Land and improvements $725,255 lots, $328,135; Personal property, $264,100. The combined valuations of the three classifications amounts to $1,317,490. These valuations do not include railroad property.

Assessor Kohl further shows that Frankfort township has a total canine population of 335. According to his records these school districts show the following dog population: Dist. 154, 16 dogs; Dist. 155 13 dogs; Dist. 156A 30 dogs; Dist. 156, 39 dogs; Dist. 157, 22 dogs; Dist. 158 14 dogs; Dist. 159 29 dogs. Dist. 161, 131 dogs. The village of Frankfort has 52 dogs and Mokena has 63 dogs, making a total of 117 dogs for the two villages. These canines are assessed as personal property when the owners refuse to pay village dog licenses.

FREE MUSICAL EVENTS MAKE UP GRANT PARK CONCERT SEASON

A series of free musical events make up the tenth annual Grant Park concert season this year. The plans covering an eight week period indicate that, in keeping with the traditions of the past nine years great throngs will be attracted to the open-air concert area in Grant Park to listen to classical and popular music and patriotic programs.

Walter L. Larsen Chicago concert master has been engaged as managing director for the summer season of 1944 and he is assisted by Geo. A. Kuyper manager of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra. A new Grant Park Symphony Orchestra includes many of the city's leading symphonic musicians and render programs in the Grant Park band shell each Wednesday, Friday and Sunday evening at 8 o'clock, starting July 5 and continuing for four weeks until Sunday, July 30. The plans contemplate that the Wednesday and Friday programs will be symphonic in nature and those on Sunday of popular character.

For the last three weeks in August the Chicago Symphony Orchestra will appear on Wednesday, Friday and Sunday evenings, closing on Sunday, August 27.

To add patriotic features to the series in these war times Mr. Dunham has invited and secured the consent of Major General H. S. Aurand, commanding the Sixth Service Area, and Rear Admiral Arthur S. Carpenter, commanding the Great Lakes Naval Training Station, for the weekly appearance of army and navy musical organizations in Grant Park.

BAND CONCERT AND AUCTION AT NEW LENOX TONIGHT

Tonight you may enjoy good entertainment, an ice cream social and a band concert on the New Lenox school grounds and also at the same time you may buy some useful and perhaps scarce household appliance or furniture at an auction to be held in conjunction with the social portion of the affair with Fred Inghram of New Lenox serving as auctioneer. The unique affair is being sponsored by the New Lenox Band Association.

HOLD BIG FAMILY REUNION AT ERNEST HOGAR FARM

Last Sunday a big family reunion was held on the Ernest Hogar farm in Sedan Prairie on Lincoln Highway east of Frankfort, 185 guests being present.

Mr. and Mrs. August Hogar of St. Paul, Minn. were among the out of town and state guests. A fine time was enjoyed by all.

Mokena Board Re-appoints Treas. and Pumper

The Mokena Village Board at their meeting Tuesday evening re-appointed George Knudson as Village Treasurer for the ensuing year and Martin Muehler as village water pumper.

The annual appropriation ordinance was passed providing for the operation of the village government for the ensuing year.

The board members discussed at length the serious condition of the village water pump and needed repairs have been ordered. If the pump should break down completely, the village would be without a water supply.

The Will County Board of Health inspector recently visited food stores and taverns in Mokena and made a comprehensive report of his findings. He recommended quite a few improvements be made by the various establishments.

RECEIVES AWARD OF NAVY CLUB

Mr. W. G. Stringer, shipwriter for the Rockford Navy club, and who is a brother of Mrs. Henry Breck of Tinley Park, has just received the National award of the Navy Club due to the fact of increase of membership from 185 to 965 in the past year.

Mr. Stringer has been declared largely responsible for this unmatched national record.

He said that of the 965 members 676 are now serving in the Navy, Marines or Coast Guard.

In the last war he served on a sub-chaser and later was on assignment at naval headquarters in London.

The Navy Club of Illinois launched Joliet Ship No. 54 on June 6, 1944 it is the nearest club to Tinley Park.

2 Tinley Residents Hurt In Odd Accidents

Two Tinley Park residents met with painful accidents last week. Fred Goebel had the misfortune to fall when a branch of a cherry tree gave way. In the fall he suffered injuries to his right foot, but he is recovering quite nicely.

While Mrs. Emil Hassmann was sitting in a rocker in the yard of her home last Saturday afternoon, one of the chair rockers caught in a deep crack in the dry ground, causing the rocker to upset and throwing Mrs. Hassmann in such a way as to cause a broken rib and fracturing another. Her husband was sitting nearby when the accident occurred. She was given first aid treatment by Dr. Carmichael.

2ND ANNUAL SUMMER BIBLE CONFERENCE TO BE HELD

The second annual all summer Bible Conference to be held at Bethany Reformed church opens auspiciously this week with Dr. John H. Linton, noted Bible expositor from Scotland and Canada the featured speaker every evening for the next two weeks until July 28th. Dr. Linton preaches next Sunday at the 10 o'clock morning worship service on the subject "A Church on Fire" and at the 7:30 evening praise service on the subject "Captain Noah and His Wonderful Ship". The Bethany Church Choir will render special music at both services.

Dr. Linton will speak on the 4:30 pm. radio broadcast over Station WAIT, 820 kc. on the subject "A Parable of Prayer". Dr. Linton is gifted in preaching expository and doctrinal sermons with a strong evangelistic application. A ready wit, combined with great earnestness, makes his preaching attractive and telling.

Prof. and Mrs. Elbert T. Tindley will furnish the special music at all services Sunday and week nights. They will give a complete concert next Saturday, July 15 at 7:45 pm. The Tindleys will sing on the radio broadcast Sunday at 4:30 pm. and accompanied at the organ by Martin Bemmema. Bethany Church is located at 111th Place and Perry Ave., one block west of State.

The St. Mary's Parish of Mokena are planning to hold their annual picnic on the church grounds July 23rd. There will be various games and refreshments and prizes will be awarded. Everyone is heartily invited to attend.

ONLY 12 HORSE AND MULE PULLING CONTESTS THIS YEAR

Only twelve Illinois county fairs will stage horse and mule pulling contests this season, according to the University of Illinois College of Agriculture, which supplies the dynamometer used in judging these competitions. The university's policy of cutting down on gasoline for all travel makes it necessary to miss some of the more distant Illinois fairs this year.

The first horse and mule pulling contest of the season will be held July 18 at Urbana. The other contests are: July 26 Farmer City; Aug. 2, Charleston, Aug. 11 Marshall Aug. 15 Milford; Aug. 16 Paris, Aug. 18, Kankakee, Aug. 23 Greenup, Aug. 24, Fairfield; Aug. 30, Salem, Aug. 31 Petersburg and September 5, Oblong.

The Youth League Institute will open Sunday July 16 thru the 22nd in the New Lenox Camp Grounds. Registration is limited to 225 high school youths. There will be four courses offered and a daily program will be planned for the seven days. On Sunday evening, the day of the opening, at 8:30 o'clock Ralph Kofoed an instructor from Erie, will give a talk on The Spirit of New Lenox.

MOKENA RESIDENT RECEIVES INTERESTING LETTER FROM WAR ZONE

Mrs. Harley Gillette, clerk of the Mokena post office is in receipt of a copy of a letter her brother recently wrote to his wife regarding his war experiences, which is given herewith in full:

Somewhere in England
June 12, 1944

Dearest Gladys:

I can't say much that you haven't read in papers. All I can say is what's been printed, and I can't tell you what our job was or is now. It wasn't as hard as that of many, nor as easy as that of many. The main thing that matters is that we did and are doing our part, and that we are all perfectly OK to tell it. The latter is something that really makes you realize what thankfulness is, when you've seen so much and so many who were not as fortunate. I further realize that you just can't realize how some things are unless you have actually experienced them. You can imagine it as you want to and think you understand, but the real thing adds something which you then know can exist no other way. I guess that's why things like war exist, and why people exist who turn their backs on things like the Red Cross, that strike in essential industries—people that just don't understand what it means to get a war over one day sooner, or even one hour sooner.

You read about the work of our Air Corps, the weakness of the Luftwaffe on D-Day. How true it was! I don't know how many times during the day I said to myself, "Man, how would it be if we were catching more hell from up there?"

Not much has been written about the mine sweepers, and they deserve as much, if not more than any one factor of the whole big thing. I don't know where I'd be today if we couldn't have followed right behind them. We were the first ship of the first convoy.

It's a shame that some things so horrible can be so beautiful too. Those bombs blasting prior to H-Hour, flares and incendiaries, tracers that make the sky look like (of all things) a giant Christmas tree, giant naval guns turning darkness into day. Its too tremendous to put into words,, and something that makes you feel like you are in another world.

And then the things that make you wish it wasn't in this world, but then, that's why we are fighting and want to get it over with. We all know those things and needn't say anymore about them, except for some who I've mentioned, and they should experience them—not read about them.

For our part the worst by far is over, and I wonder if we deserve to say we've been "there"—when so many aren't alive to say it and so many others always stay there to live it till its all done?

Those Army boys are tough and will do their best, and I wish we were already bringing them back, and I have hopes that isn't so far away. Buy another War bond too—every little bit helps.

Love,
Hans

BREMEN VICTORY 4 H'ERS CLUB MEETS

The second meeting of the Bremen Victory 4 H'ers was held July 6 at the home of June Jobson in Tinley Park. President Barbara Jean Bartholomew presided at the meeting, at which time we planned a swimming party on July 21 at the Blue Island pool.

The program for the evening then followed with a talk on Pressing Garments by June Jobson. Barbara Bartholomew then talked on Well Balanced Meals. The demonstration of the meeting was given by June Jobson on how to set in sleeves.

Future Achievement Day demonstrations were also talked about. After adjourning, everyone enjoyed a marshmallow roast held outside by the firelight with the added refreshments of cookies and pop. Next meeting July 12 at Patsy Tolén's home.

Dies of Fractured Neck In Accident At Frankfort

Charles Troupe, aged 63 years of Matteson, was fatally injured late Monday afternoon while at work on the E J & E railroad at Frankfort. He had been engaged in welding rails and in some manner he was thrown and suffered a fractured neck. Dr. Hiroshige of Frankfort was summoned, but found the man was beyond aid and he died within about ten minutes after he arrived.

The body was removed to Joliet and later to the Spindler & Koelling Funeral Parlor in Chicago Heights. Funeral services were conducted at the Lutheran church in Matteson Thursday afternoon. Burial was made in the Matteson cemetery.

The deceased was born in Green Garden township, October 2, 1882. He is survived by one brother H. J. Troupe of Aurora. The deceased was a single man.

Inquest at Western Funeral Home in Joliet Friday morning at 10 a'clock.

MEAT CEILING PRICE LISTS NOW AVAILABLE

Lists of convenient size covering the ceiling price on meats, canned and processed foods and other dried groceries are now available to house wives and other food shoppers at their local boards. While different methods of distributing these lists among housewives may be devised, anyone can obtain copies by calling at their Board office. Having thousands of these price lists in the hands of the consumers should be a great help, not only to them, but to the neighborhood stores as well. Housewives can either carry these lists or they can check them at home purposes, and so relieve the merchants of the tedium of looking up price ceilings on their own posted lists, or they can check them at home before starting out on a purchasing trip and make out shopping lists with only the ceiling prices of the things they expect to buy.

This is the first time that such lists, in a size convenient to handle, has been made available to the public.

OLD PRESSURE COOKERS TO BE TESTED

Thru the efforts of Mrs. Edith Hoffman, county home advisor, arrangements are being made to test home pressure cookers. This service is being offered to the owners as a safety measure. Any person in the township owning a cooker, may avail themselves of this service. They need not be a member of the Home Bureau. Call Mrs. Orville Hohenstein at New Lenox 2301 for service. If the response is good a centrally located place will be established where the tests can be made.

LULU FULTON ROGERS MEMORIAL TO BE DEDICATED

The Lulu Fulton Rogers Memorial will be dedicated in the Tinley Park Methodist church Sunday afternoon July 23 at 3 pm. The public is cordially invited to this service.

TINLEY PARK COUPLE TO CELEBRATE GOLDEN WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Witte of Tinley Park will celebrate their 50th Wedding anniversary Wednesday, July 26, 1944. They will hold open house for all relatives and friends from 7:00 to 10:00 o'clock pm. in their home.

NOTICE

Notice is hereby, given by the Board of Education of School District No. 146 in the County of Cook, State of Illinois, that a tentative budget and appropriation ordinance for said school district for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1944 will be on file and conveniently available for public inspection at the office of said School District, 173rd Street and 67th Court between the hours of 10 o'clock A. M. and 3 o'clock P. M. daily, until the 14th day of August, 1944.

Notice is further given hereby that a public hearing on said budget and appropriation ordinance will be held at 8 o'clock P. M. the 14th day of August, 1944 at the Tinley Park School in this School District. Dated this 10th day of July, 1944. Board of Education, District 146

ORLAND LEGION PICNIC AND PARADE AUG. 6th

Orland Park Legion Post No. 526 will hold a picnic in the forest preserve on 143rd St., in Orland Park on Sunday, August 6th. A feature will be a parade at 1:30 p. m.

Washington, D. C.

DISCHARGED VETERANS

President Roosevelt has just received a suggestion from Chicago's Mayor Ed Kelly designed to aid in the rehabilitation of ex-servicemen. Kelly, acting on a proposal from his wife Margaret, head of Chicago's tremendously popular servicemen's aid organization, has urged FDR that men be permitted to wear their uniforms for three to six months after they are discharged, if they want to. Kelly pointed out that 30,000 Chicago boys have been discharged from service and that many return home, after a year or more's absence, feeling thoroughly out of place in the community in civilian clothes.

Many folks don't even know the boys have been off to war serving their country, Kelly has pointed out. Discharge buttons, promised many months ago, are still not issued to men everywhere. Even though disabled, they no longer can enter servicemen's centers for recreation, no longer receive special rates in theaters.

Kelly also wrote the President that, during the last war, men were allowed to keep wearing their uniforms for some time after their discharge. Many walked the streets in uniforms hunting jobs and received preference because they were veterans.

Note—Chicago's servicemen's centers have done one of the best jobs in the U. S. A., have served more than 12,000,000 meals free.

CONGRESSIONAL SOLDIERS

It's not nearly so bad as in the last war, but several younger members of congress are having trouble as they seek reelection, because they are in congress and not in the army. In most cases, the "slacker" charges are simply whispered.

In one case, political opponents are whispering about a congressman who has received the navy's Silver Star for gallantry in action. He is Lyndon Johnson of Texas, who saw his bunkmate killed beside him in the South Pacific.

Representative Albert Gore of Tennessee, who is 36, is another who has been smeared in a whispering campaign. A father, Gore waived his congressional immunity last winter and was inducted into the army as a private. However, at the request of the President, he returned to congress before he began training.

Others who have felt the lash of criticism because they are serving their country in the office to which they were elected are Wilbur Mills of Arkansas, Jamié Whitten of Mississippi, Lindley Beckworth of Texas, and even Representative Warren G. Magnuson of Washington. The 39-year-old Magnuson, now running for senator, has seen more of the western Pacific theater than most soldiers and sailors in the area, was serving on the aircraft carrier from which General Doolittle's planes took off for the first bombing of Tokyo.

AIR-COOLED CONGRESS

While war workers swelter in movie theaters and while government officials suffer in Washington's flimsy temporary buildings, the high-ceilinged house and senate office buildings enjoy air conditioned comfort—even with congress adjourned.

Although the capitol air-conditioning equipment is being geared to use the smallest possible amount of freon gas, the fact remains that it took a special deal with WPB to release the 14,000 pounds needed. Meanwhile, movie theaters serving war workers in the South have been denied freon because of military demands.

Capitol Architect David Lynn says he's the man to blame, not members of congress. He says not a single member has taken the matter up with him.

Probably no one is directly to blame, unless it is the WPB officials who played favorites in releasing the freon. No one begrudges the congressmen their air-conditioning, but their buildings, because of thick walls and high ceilings, would be cool even without air-conditioning.

In the army's huge Pentagon building, the freon supply has been cut to the bone. The result, according to workers there, is that the atmosphere is slightly warm. Last year they claimed it was far too chilly, with many colds resulting.

CAPITAL CHAFF

NBC's popular "Labor for Victory" radio program will be suspended for the summer after nearly two years on the air. Reason is the AFL won't cooperate with the CIO in putting it on.

Insiders report that the recent visit of Polish Premier Mikolajczyk to Washington was highly successful. The Polish government is now expected to purge itself of anti-Russian leaders such as Beck and Pilsudski. In return, Russia will sign a treaty of cooperation with Poland similar to that with Czechoslovakia; also will give the Poles more territory around Lwow.

Taxpayers will get some jolty reading in Prof. Harold Groves' "Production Jobs and Taxes," published by McGraw-Hill for the committee on economic development.

Dewey and Bricker at Chicago

It's Dewey and Bricker and an impressive scene in the Chicago stadium as the Republican national convention delegates stampeded when Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York accepted the presidential nomination. Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio proved just as popular with the delegates as he clasped hands with Dewey, following his acceptance of the vice presidency nomination.

Tornado Scatters Homes in East

Wash basins and dresser drawers form part of the general wreckage, when the tornado struck B avenue, Liberty borough, Pittsburgh. Houses were lifted completely from foundations and furnishings flung far and wide. List of dead and injured was reported at 154 dead and 1,100 injured in the worst disaster in Pennsylvania's history, the Johnstown flood. Thousands were taken care of by Red Cross rushed to the scene.

Yanks Hunt Snipers

Taking care to keep well down out of harm's way, American soldiers take part in a sniper hunt somewhere in France. The soldier in the foreground pokes his helmet up over the edge of the ditch, hoping and asking for the sniper to take a shot so his position can be located. Snipers soon surrender when located.

SUCCESSES AND FAILURES OF ISRAEL

LESSON TEXT—Judges 2:6-16.
GOLDEN TEXT—Righteousness exalteth a nation; but sin is a reproach to any people.—Proverbs 14:34.

The success or failure of both nations and individuals is ultimately determined by their attitude toward the law of God. He is always right and true. The constant factor in a world order that swings wildly from one extreme to another, is His law, which is perfect and eternal.

God is no respecter of persons. Even Israel, His own chosen nation, found that observing God's law meant blessing, and failure to do so brought judgment and sorrow. No man is great and powerful enough to ignore this rule—and none is exempt from its operation.

I. Remembering God Brings Blessing (vv. 6-9).

Although Israel had not fully obeyed God's command, and had been rebuked by an angel of the Lord for their failure (Judg. 2:1-5), they had come into a measure of their inheritance under Joshua.

They now possessed that inheritance and entered into enjoyment of it (v. 6). It is one thing to have an inheritance, but another thing to claim it and make use of it. Countless Christians have never taken out their inheritance in Christ. All they have is the earnest (Eph. 1:14) or "down payment."

God never meant that any child of His should live a poverty-stricken spiritual life, or should go halting on first one side and then the other. He has made provision for a full-orbed, strong and joyful life. Why not enter upon your full inheritance in Christ now?

As the people of Israel took possession of the land, they went forward in the way of blessing as long as Joshua, and the elders who remembered God, kept them steady and true. We have here an excellent illustration of the power of a godly example. It is far stronger than we think.

II. Forgetting God Brings Backsliding (vv. 10-13).

The fact that a people has been highly privileged and has been exalted to a place of power and honor will not save it in the day when God is forgotten. Israel no longer had God-fearing men to bring it back to God, and so began its awful drifting away from God.

We Americans are rightly proud of our great land, its mighty resources, its fine past and promising future. But wait—what is the future to be? Oh, we say, the most glorious days are ahead. They may be, but only if we, like our forefathers who established this nation, recognize God. If we do not, America will go the way of the forgotten empires of centuries past, and that in spite of all its past achievements and its present promise.

Let us always remember that America is not some vague entity apart from us, for we, you and I, are America, we determine what it shall be, and how it shall relate itself to God. Let us be sure that no one we know ever forgets God.

It is a significant thing that the leaders of our nation so often come from Christian homes, but it is sad that they are so frequently not Christians themselves. Their lives are shaped by the teaching and influence of godly parents who reared them, but what will their children do if they are not brought up in the fear and admonition of the Lord?

Forgetting God is bad enough in its immediate results, but just ahead there is great and certain disaster.

III. Forsaking God Brings Judgment (vv. 14-16).

God not only will not hold a backsliding nation guiltless, but will bring judgment even if He has to turn over His people to a despoiling nation. He has instruments of individual and national chastisement, and He is ready to use them.

Notice that wherever they went the Lord's hand was against them. There is no place to flee from the presence of God. Anyone who thinks he can do it, should read Psalm 139:7-12. It can't be done. That is a comfort to the believer, but it is not a little disquieting to the unbeliever.

God, however, always remembers mercy in the midst of judgment (Ps. 101:1). He sent judges to deliver Israel, when He was sure of their repentance (v. 16). "If there was ever a time when nations needed deliverers, it's now. The systematic looting of subjugated peoples, the deliberate murder of multitudes of Jews, the mass executions of many innocent people in reprisal for some patriotic act of resistance, are evils that cry to heaven.

"If men would call on God not merely for deliverance but in real repentance for sins committed 'perhaps the God who delivered Israel' would send deliverance to suffering people still" (Arnold's Commentary).

Well—why not call on Him now, in earnest repentance and faith. Will you do it?

WHY not make a week-end project of putting together a couple of comfortable chairs with the special features shown here? You don't have to have a fancy workshop. The whole job may be done out in the yard or on the porch. Just three stock widths of lumber are needed; all the cuts are straight and the pieces may be nailed or screwed together.

But the really important thing about this chair is that it is comfortable to sit in and good to look at. The removable back makes it easy to move around and to store for the winter.

NOTE—Mrs. Spears has prepared a large sheet with working diagrams; complete list of materials; dimensions and step-by-step directions for cutting and assembling this chair. Ask for Design 269 and enclose 15 cents. Address:

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT

Back in January, American troops recaptured from the Japs the first invaded rubber-producing land. They took possession of Sedor in New Guinea with its 300 acres of rubber trees. All Sedor rubber normally goes to Australia.

Informed rubber officials insist that when peace comes, our synthetic rubber plants will be just as vital to the security of the American people as they are during the war period. They say that the amount of post-war synthetic which will be made in this country after the war will depend upon the total world demand for rubber and upon the crude prices established by plantation operators.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.

Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength.

Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination. There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

Raindrop Has Its Ups and Downs Becoming Hailstone

A hailstone is a drop of rain that is carried up and down between currents of warm and cold air which alternately coat it with moisture and then freeze the coat, says Collier's.

Consequently, as these coats, or concentric layers, are visible when the stone is cut in two, the number of times it was carried up and down before falling can be determined.

THE STORY THUS FAR: Lieut. Col. Frank Kurtz, pilot of Flying Fortress "The Swoose," tells of that fatal day when the Japs struck in the Philippines, killing eight of his men and demolishing Old 99, with many other Forts, before it could get off the ground. After escaping to Australia, what is left of the 19th Bombardment Group flies to Java, where they defend the island until it falls. U. S. fliers evacuate to Australia to carry on the war from there. CHAPTER XXIII

"So the Major started out then on an ordinary box-search problem, trying to find this Cloncurry—you fly so many minutes north, and then east, and then south, and then west, and then, lengthening your time, north again, and so on. We kept this up for quite a while, but no Cloncurry, and our gas was running out. I'll say this, though, the Major sure wasn't running short of advice. What with his cockpit full of air generals of all nations, he had plenty of that, and every different kind you can imagine—they all knew just what to do.

"The trouble was, every time he paced from the nose of the plane back to the tail, it would throw the plane out of balance, and Frank here would have to trim ship, in addition to all the questions he was answering. I guess this pacer had never thought of that.

"By this time Frank had decided the only thing to do was to make a forced landing, so he was leaning over the side trying to pick a spot."

"With all of those guys yammering at you, telling you what to do," said Red, "and this guy pacer. Only for a while he stopped, but just for a minute, while he was putting on a parachute. Why, I wouldn't quite know. Because we were down to 500 feet, and if he did jump of course it would never have time to crack. But I didn't say a word, because buckling himself in was keeping him quiet. Only right away he starts this pacing again, with the poor Major trying to nose her down for a crash landing, and he tells me to tell them all to get back in the tail so it will act as a brake, only this guy starts pacing again.

"Now I was getting the jumps, for even if the Major is the best pilot in the business, a crash landing is no joke, even for old-timers. So I grab this pacing guy and 'Now look,' I says to him. 'You may carry plenty of rank on your shoulders, but to this pilot you're just two hundred pounds of ballast. So now you quit shifting around—you get on back there and sit down.' And I herded him back to the very tip end of the plane, and pushed him down, parachute and all, on that little seat. You've probably been wondering all along, just where this little seat is, on a bomber. Well, it's just where it would be any place else—even on a farm—all you do is follow the clothes line, back down to the end of the grape arbor, and there she sets.

"Well, I pushed him down on the seat, and in about a minute there was quite a bump, but still it was a perfect three-point landing. In four seconds the Major had her rolling smooth. The ground was soft. Twenty-five tons is a lot of bomber, and her wheels began to sink in—about six inches. But the Major could sense this, so he gave gas to all four engines to keep her rolling, and taxied her up to high ground hard enough to hold her up.

"We got out. Pretty soon Australian ranchers begin crawling out of holes in the ground—I don't know where else they came from—and right away Lieutenant Commander Johnson gets busy. He begins to get acquainted. They tell him where we are and some of them go off to get a truck to take us into town where we can telephone, and more keep coming, and Johnson is shaking hands all around, and he comes back and tells us these are real folks—the best darn folks in the world, except maybe the folks in his own Texas. Pretty soon he knows all their first names, and they're telling him why there ought to be a high tariff on wool, and there's no question he swung that county for Johnson before we left. He was in his element. I know he sure swung the Swoose crew. He can carry that precinct any day."

"Listening to him made us all homesick," said Frank, "so I suppose it was a good thing we got suddenly ordered back to the States at the end of the month. In a curious way I was ready now to come. I'd turned it down before, because after we were thrown out of Java we all had that sick feeling—trying to hold onto something that was slipping away in spite of everything you did. You couldn't walk out feeling things might suddenly cave in again.

"But now it was different. In Australia and that island chain above we were getting firmly set, the way we should have been in the Philippines and Java, and didn't have time.

"But we'd had it now, and knew how to use it. Best of all, we were finally getting some fighting equipment, not just production figures. So even though we were soaking up plenty of heavy punches in the island chain, we were sure now we could at least hold them. But as yet I hadn't dared hope for much more.

"Only now I come to the thing which at last changed that, because I had to see it before I could believe it.

"It happened out on that long trans-Pacific trail where we've almost worn ruts in the sky between the States and Australia. It was like this. We were letting down for one of the island steppingstones which, according to Harry's navigation, should be somewhere ahead of us. It was very early in the morning. Harry's the best navigator in the business, and he had said we should be in there six hours from the time we left the last island. But of course his figures could be a little off, or maybe the wind drift would change—you never know. The Pacific is too big a place to take chances in, as Eddie Rickenbacker's party found out. So after we'd been out five hours we got the island on the radio, and asked them to give us searchlights, just so we wouldn't miss their little pinpoint in the dawn.

"We'd flown without change of course for five hours. Now Harry took his final shots and we started down the line to that island. Harry had said six hours—it took us just five hours and fifty-seven minutes. The island was an atoll around a shallow basin where Navy PBV flying boats could light. The atoll is two feet above high tide at its high point. On one side are labor construction tents, a cantonment building for the tiny garrison, ack-ack, searchlights, and even a tiny movie theater. On the other side is the landing strip. I'll swear Harry must have navigated not for the island, but for that landing strip itself. For without change of course, all we have to do is let our wheels down. Some day I want Eddie Rickenbacker to meet Harry.

"As we climbed out of the Swoose, the island garrison asked us, very excited, 'Did you see anything?' When we said we hadn't, they went off by themselves, whispering. I wanted to know what was up, so I asked the Colonel. Told him we were on an important mission ourselves—had a top-ranker aboard—and what did he expect here at this atoll?

"'Trouble,' he said. Looking at his little setup, I couldn't help thinking of those poor guys who were overwhelmed on Wake Island. But the Colonel wasn't sure what kind of trouble was coming. He only knew orders had mysteriously come putting the Navy patrol planes on extra-long hours, doubling shifts. Somewhere, somebody was certainly on the lookout for something, and those poor devils had to sit on that atoll and guess what it might be.

"It didn't smell good. We gassed up and got out forty-five minutes later, just as it was cracking dawn. By now, the equatorial front had dissolved into a spotted ceiling. I suppose we'd been going an hour when, through a hole in this ceiling, out suddenly popped four or five ships down on the wrinkled sea. But I could only look at one of them.

"Now you think you're a man, with everything under control, yet I'm telling you I reacted to this one the way a fox terrier does to a rat. Because it was a whopping aircraft carrier! And after Java and the Philippines, say 'carrier' to a pilot, and he steadies everything for his bomb run, tense as a violin string, hoping his bombardier has the hairlines of his bomb sight crossed on its flight deck just over the engine room. It's like a bird dog pointing quail, with his tail tip quivering. Only, after half a second, I'm a man again and can think, can remember we haven't any bombs swinging on their shackles in our bomb bays—nothing we can drop on this beautiful target but the high-ranking passenger who is riding with us.

"Then comes reaction number two. No bombs, but what about the carrier's covering fighters? You talk about a mother tiger fighting for her young—that's nothing to the way a patrolling carrier fighter will defend its mother ship. Because every carrier-based fighter knows that once his carrier is hit and the waves begin to sweep over that long flight deck, and one end of her hoists up in the air, then he's out in the big sky by his lonesome—no pontoons, nothing to do but sink into the sea when his tanks are dry. Those Zeros will come screaming in to hit me from almost any cloud. Since I can't make a bomb run, I must get away quick!

"But now, over the interphones, comes a shout—they've spotted another carrier. I look and see it too. Then another! And now—my God, it can't be, but it is—four! It makes us frantic we haven't got something to plunk through those smooth flight decks into their engine rooms, and maybe blow a few square yards out of the bottom of their hulls!

"Only we now grow cold, because where are the escorting fighters? We can't speed up, because they should be up ahead, but they might show up any place—come leaping up at us out of this fleecy blanket of overcast like dolphins jumping through the foam.

"Down there are not only four carriers but a gang of other stuff—a fog of destroyers, at least fifteen cruisers, and one thundering big battleship. Only as a bomber pilot I'm fixed on those carriers, enormous brutes. Too enormous. Say, what's going on? Because Jap carriers are little devils—you can hardly pack forty planes into them, while these might hold double that, like our best ones. Now wait. Maybe we're too low and these just look big, but no—I glance at the altimeter and we're at 7,500.

"So they're ours! This big parade of surface strength is us Americans! I change course just the same—30 degrees, swinging wide of this big naval parade, because we can take no chances on their air patrol. Even an American carrier fighter, when he sees a bomber over his rafter ship, should shoot first and ask questions later. We don't want to tangle with Grummans.

"We swing out wide and away, but with what a different feeling! 'Well, I guess that's about all, except on our homeward trip, we cracked the trans-Pacific record wide open. The old Swoose, with her war-worn motors, made it from Brisbane to San Francisco in thirty-six hours ten minutes flying time, the only one of the original 35 on Clark Field to see home again.'

"When they said long distance was calling from San Francisco, of course that didn't mean anything to me," said Margo. "With two brothers in the Air Corps, one in bombardment and one in pursuit, it might be either one. Then I heard Frank's own voice saying 'Margo?' Because I hadn't heard any overseas operators, or any censor clicking in, I knew he must be here in the States. For the first time I could cry on the phone. It's nice to be strong, but so much more fun to let down when you can, and I did."

Mr. Winkle Goes to War

BY THEODORE PRATT

EDWARD STREETER, AUTHOR OF 1917's RECORD-BREAKING WAR BOOK, "DERE MABEL," SAYS:

"Mr. Winkle Goes to War" is swell. Having read the first page I could not put it down until I had read the last.

It is a charming, restrained bit of satire which is going to appeal to the hearts of thousands of people who are groping for something which ties this fantastic war into human realities. Here's hoping that Chipsian Mr. Winkle becomes as well known and well beloved as he deserves to be.

Applique Apron

A BIG overall apron for summer has a "basket" pocket of dark green and bright red cherries, green leaves and basket handle applied onto the body of the apron. Make the apron in colorful checked cotton—it's a splendid kitchen "shower" gift!

Household Hints

For cleaning a coffee-stained percolator, put in a cup of salt, fill with water, and let the mixture percolate as for coffee.

Never knot the ends of your thread when darning socks as the knot may prove uncomfortable to the wearer. Moistening the end of darning cotton will prevent thread slipping through when taking the first stitch.

To tell at a glance which are your good handkerchiefs, iron them into triangles and plain ones into squares.

To help in remodeling dated garments, try grandmother's custom of having a "piece bag." In it put all saved zippers, bits of ribbon and lace, and scraps of fabric.

Squirt kerosene on nuts and bolts that are to be loosened, once each day for several days, before the machine is to be worked on. They'll come off much easier.

A bit of flour sifted into hot fat will put a stop to spattering in a jiffy.

To remove face powder from a satin or velvet dress, brush lightly with a woolen cloth.

To obtain complete applique pattern and apron pattern for the Cherry Basket Apron (Pattern No. 5739), sizes: small (34-36), medium (38-40), and large (42-44), send 16 cents in coin, your name, address and the pattern number.

Due to an unusually large demand and current war conditions, slightly more time is required in filling orders for a few of the most popular pattern numbers.

Dark Ages Lasted From Fifth to Twelfth Century

Roughly speaking, the Dark Ages extended from the fall of the Western Roman Empire in the fifth century to the revival of learning in the 12th century—altogether about seven centuries. During a good part of that period learning was at its lowest ebb in Europe.

Civilization had been put in reverse by the masses of barbarians who swept down from northern Europe to over-run the former seats of learning.

Tinley Park News

Dr. Wm. I. DeWees, member of the Illinois State Normal University staff, has been appointed state supervisor of the milkweed floss collection program which is sponsored to gather milkweed floss for use in life jackets for servicemen.

Although actual collection of milkweed pods does not start until September, Dr. DeWees will work during the summer months contracting county war boards and organizing the campaign. He will have headquarters at ISNU, Normal where he may be reached by mail or phone. His home address is 4 Clinton Place Normal.

The milkweed collection program is conducted in cooperation with War Hemp Industries, Inc. Petoskey, Mich. Milkweed floss is used in life jackets as a substitute for kapok, formerly imported from East Indies, now held by Japs.

During the summer Illinois people, particularly boys and girls will be organized for the fall job. They will be paid by the bag for their work which may save the life of a fighting man.

"Just how Cook County will be organized we do not know," states the Farm Adviser. That is not the important question. To get the pods of every milkweed in city lots, farm fence rows, along streams, in forest preserves, in swamps; is very important. Doubtless organization will be by school districts, and school children will be called on from villages to work in the country pulling these pods in September.

Mrs. Lorraine Miller Hiers has returned from Marysville, Cal. where she spent three months with her husband who is stationed there. Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Andres, Mr. Martin Miller, Mr. and Mrs. John Andres spent last week in Hayward Wis. on a vacation and fishing trip. Dr. and Mrs. Clayton Enoch and Mr. and Mrs. Jim English returned this week from a vacation seventy miles north of Fort Francis, Canada. They said the fishing was fine.

The Ladies Aid of the Zion Lutheran church will hold their yearly picnic at the Linden Gardens, Wednesday, August 2 beginning at 11:00 am. The Ladies will have a pot luck luncheon. Each member is asked to bring their favorite dish and the ladies may bring one guest. Mrs. Wm. Lanfrusti, pub. chairman Harold Henry Brownfield, 17, of Matteson, Ill. formerly from Tinley Park, qualified last week for Air Combat Crew training with the Army Air Forces. Young men 17 years old are not called for active training until they are 18. Until called to active duty, they serve in the Air Corps Enlisted Reserve, and wear a small pair of blue and silver wings upon their civilian clothing. Harold attends Thornton Twp. high school and his hobbies are cameras, sports and reading. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Brownfield of Matteson. He has two uncles now serving in the Army overseas.

Arule Matthews, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Matthews, Tinley Park is receiving his initial naval indoctrination at the U. S. Naval Training Center at Great Lakes.

The following V mail letter was received from Richard E. Nitsche, 19, Radioman 3-c.

Richard E. Nitsche, was a member of a U. S. Naval crew in the American Assault Force which invaded France. This was my first action with the enemy. I have received the following promotion Seaman 2nd class to RA 3-c on June 1, 1944.

My parents are Mr. and Mrs. Fred W. Nitsche, Tinley Park, Ill. My occupation before joining the Navy was Record Clerk, CRI & P R.R., Chicago. The last school I attended was Thornton Twp. High School, Harvey, Ill.

Kenneth Jobson left for service with the Navy a week ago last Friday and is now stationed at Parkville, Missouri.

Cpl. and Mrs. Cornell DeValck have returned to Tampa, Fla.

The RNA held their regular and social meeting Tuesday night. Mr. and Mrs. E. Chapman have returned from their vacation which they spent at Highland Lake with Mrs. Krieger Supervisor of the R.N. A. S. S. camp. Mrs. Klittle and grandma Hick were guests over the 4th and 5th of July.

The Tinley Park Bunco club met with Mrs. E. Rice Thursday. Mrs. Sophie Williams of Chicago returned home Wednesday. She has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hopman and plans to be in Tinley Park Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Art DeValck of Chicago visited his parents Wednesday.

Dear Friends:
Your box arrived a few days ago. I was certainly surprised the contents were most enjoyable. Especially the crackers and cheese, that's really a treat over here. I personally think you're doing a splendid job for the home town boys in service. The Times are coming thru pretty good, there about a month old when they arrive but its always good to hear what the folks are doing back home.

We have been having USO shows here frequently and they are really good ones. Certainly helps the morale, they are doing a great job over here, and we appreciate it very much. Today or should I say, tonight we had a delicious chicken supper, was it good. The food is pretty good over here and we always get

Dear Friends:
Received your nice letter of May 3 and have moved since then, was glad to hear that spring has arrived and sure would like to be back to spend it with you. In regards to requesting things there isn't much I need and anyway they never get here and we move so often. As yet I haven't received the Tinley Park Times it would be nice as reading material is scarce. I am at a busy air strip which helps pass the time. I was very sorry to hear about our good friend Lulu Rogers and also Mr. Harper. It seems you folks are having more casualties than we. Well folks any news that I would want to give you is taboo so for now, good bye.

Mokena Service Club News
by Mrs. Leslie Clark

At the regular meeting of the Mokena Women's Service Club on Monday evening the following committee was named to purchase gifts for the Christmas boxes:

Miss Elmira McGovney, Mrs. Dave McMillan, Mrs. Berle Needham, Mrs. Leslie Clark; Mrs. Fred Whitlark, Mrs. Floyd Williams and Mrs. Barney Hostert.

The committee will welcome suggestions for gifts from all the members. It was also decided to publish each month the names of our boys, as their birthdays occur. It is hoped that their friends will see their names and send them a card.

We have learned from our correspondence that our boys greatly appreciate hearing from their friends as well as their folks at home. The following boys have birth days this month:

Edmond Ebert, Arthur Hurley, Frederick "Bud" Lauffer, Berle Needham, Kenneth Sterner; Harley Gillette and Kenneth Benson.

We have received thank you cards from the following boys who have received their birthday gifts: Pfc. Mike Roberts, Sgt. Wilbur Mancke, Petty Officer "Bud" Warning.

Sgt. Wilbur Mancke had two pleasant surprises recently. When attending a meeting somewhere in England he met Lt. Paul Meyers, a former Mokena resident. He has also been made a Staff Sgt. Congratulations Wilbur.

Pvt. John Nordsell has returned to duty at his new station in Greensboro, N. C. after a 7 day furlough at home.

SSgt. Emory Ahlborn is enjoying a short furlough at home. We are grateful for the following contributions to our Christmas box fund. Mr. and Mrs. Walter Cappel $4.00 Mr. Herman Bruhn, $2.00. Everyone in the community is invited to contribute.

Mrs. Hostert has several dinner plates at her home that she is sure someone is missing from their sets. They were brought in with pies and cakes for the bingo party. So if your plate is missing please call for it.

Dear Ladies:

I received the swell birthday gift you sent sometime ago. It surely was good and the boys enjoyed it too. Having your birthday remembered, is certainly appreciated when you're in the army. I know all the boys are grateful for the fine work you are doing for us. Thank you again, Sincerely yours, Pvt. Victor W. Demkov, Patterson, New Jersey.

The following was received by Pat Hutson from Walter Hentsch who is in the south Pacific: Dear Pat:

I received your letter yesterday and was more than glad to hear from you. How is everything in Mokena? Have you heard from Bud? Everything is swell here. Do you know, I let Bud slip right out from under my nose and I know why he hasn't written. I had a letter from Gordon yesterday and he said Bud was here in Hawaii. He was here but has left now. I saw his outfit go. I was working from the road and I didn't know what outfit it was, but inquired in town and was told it was Bud's outfit, but I didn't know it soon enough. They were only a short distance from us. There is only 10 or 15 men of his outfit left here. I can't tell you how long ago they left. I'll bet any money he is right in there fighting now and I know he will do more than his part. I sure hope we will be giving him some help soon.

Just think I might have walked within 40 or 50 feet of Bud and didn't know it. One thing sure, he can take care of himself. I know Bud, so don't worry about him. Hope to hear from you soon. "Sparky".

Mrs. Raymond Westlund is absent from her work at the Illinois Agriculture Mutual Insurance Co., in Chicago due to an infection in her teeth.

Mrs. Fred Whitlark and daughter Marianne, in company with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Krusemark of Chicago and Atty. A. H. Krusemark, Sr. of Frankfort returned Friday after a two weeks vacation at Athelstone, Wisc.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Whitlark and daughter Marianne recently spent a week at Arkdale, Wis. visiting Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Marti and family.

Mokena Boy Scout Troop No. 40 after an exciting week at Boy Scout camp. All eight of the boys who make up the new Scout group started earlier this year attended the Camp.

The Scouts, all of whom report an interesting time, are Jack Bueschel, Ramon Gunhouse, Don Heyden, Marvin Homering, Richard Kreml, Jack Martie, Ronald Steen, and Ralph Yunker.

At the camp, Camp Rotary, located near Morris, Illinois, the Scouts enjoyed swimming, swimming instruction, boating, and living under honest to goodness camp conditions. All of them earned special Campcraft awards for work on a camp construction project. One of the Scouts, Ronald Steen, qualified for membership in the Order of the Arrow. Qualification for this highly regarded scout award involves, among other things, sleeping one night out of doors, at a remote spot, with only the sky as a roof, and a couple of blankets for protection; keeping from talking for 24 hours and similar tests.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Braun returned last Wednesday from Moson, Wis. where they spent a week with the latter relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Rinke spent last Sunday at Great Lakes Naval Training station with their son George who is in training there.

F. D. R. IS FAR FROM INDISPENSABLE

The New Dealers say Franklin D. Roosevelt is the one man the nation can't do without in winning the war. Washington newspaper correspondents, noted for their disinterested attitudes, say he is only a "show" man when it comes to usefulness in Washington.

Look Magazine recently made a survey of opinion of Washington correspondents, asking whom they considered to be the most useful Washington official.

Was Roosevelt first? Not on your life.

Was Roosevelt second? Not at all. Franklin D. Roosevelt was THIRD man in the race.

In other words, Franklin D. Roosevelt is very dispensable. He can be done without.

First most useful man, according to the correspondents, was a soldier—General George C. Marshall, chief of staff. Second most useful man, according to the correspondents, was Cordell Hull, secretary of state.

The same survey made a poll to determine the 10 least useful persons in Washington. Among those getting high score were Frances Perkins, secretary of labor; Henry Morgenthau, Jr., secretary of the treasury; Claude R. Wickard, secretary of agriculture; Henry A. Wallace, vice president of the United States; Francis Biddle, attorney general,—the majority of the Roosevelt cabinet.

Also voted among the ten least useful were John E. Rankin, Democrat representative from Mississippi; Harry L. Hopkins, special assistant to the President; Joseph F. Guffey, Democratic senator from Pennsylvania, and Paul V. McNutt, director of the Federal Security Agency.—Ohio Republican News.

Republicans Win New York Beachhead On Invasion Day

Democrats were stunned by a crushing defeat suffered on "Invasion Day," in a New York City Congressional district which had been Democratic for 63 years.

Republicans hailed the election of Ellsworth B. Buck in the 11th district over Thomas V. Cantwell, a Democrat who had American Labor party support, as an omen of victory throughout the nation in November.

Buck polled 14,299 votes against 10,764 for Cantwell, whose vote was made up of 8,567 Democratic and 2,197 American Labor party ballots. Buck's vote was 57% of the total vote cast. This constituted a gain of 15% in vote percentage in two years.

What was most distressing to Democrats was the apparent rejection of their No. 1 argument for the fourth term: Don't desert the commander in chief in time of war.

If voters cast their ballots against the commander in chief on invasion day, Democratic leaders acknowledged that they cannot be expected to be swayed by appeals not to change horses in the middle of the stream on election day.

The Republican victory in a traditionally Democratic district in New York city adds to the tangible evidence of the Republican trend registered in recent months in special congressional elections in Colorado, Pennsylvania, Kentucky, Kansas, Missouri and other states.

A letter from Gordon Osmus who is stationed in New Guinea to his parents Mr and Mrs. Edw. A. Osmus Dear Mother, Dad, and all:

Its time I got on the ball and wrote you something, but from my recent letters Helen has no doubt told you what I've been doing. I am mailing this and Helen's air mail letter together and please let me know the time they make. Your package has not arrived yet. I am looking forward to it, just like a kid at Christmas. That's the way with all of them. Hope Don makes out alright on the farm.

I hope that I haven't changed too much when I get back. I would like to have met Maurice Barry, in Kauai, Hawaii. What is Howard Cruise's address? Wish my letters coming in would make as good time as mine going out. You mentioned the USO stationary. I just happened to have some with me. No USO here however the Red Cross is here. They have units attached to us. Main field director is with us. We can get different items from time to time for free. Have a mobile canteen about too. This isn't much of a letter for now but it is to let you know I am feeling fine and in good spirits am getting used to the climate and condition now and to have for ourselves a little more comfort now. The hardest work is over and we are gradually settling down to our usual normal routine. It has not rained a great deal lately altho the sun really bears down thruout the day. Our tents hold the heat so it is usually cooler outside in the sun. When I have nothing to do I usually stay around the area writing or reading. This climate doesn't leave a fellow much ambition. Seems to draw the energy out.

Give my regards to everyone and don't forget mail is the only thing to look forward to from day to day.

Hello to grandpa and grandma. Take care of yourselves. Lots of love to all and God bless you all. Gordy.

Letter from Gordon Osmus to his wife and baby:

Dearest Helen and Jackie:

Morning darlings, how's my family this morn? And what did you do last nite? For myself, I had a quiet evening at "home". No job last nite so we were able to stay in. Since I could not get the table to write at, I read a book. We put up a larger table this morning now we can all write at once if we feel the urge. We got hold of a section of one of those large telephone wire spools, using the one side makes a nice round top around our center tent pole.

Had several fellows from some other outfit over and they couldn't get over how spotless & immaculate our area's and tents were. Most of the other units don't bother much with getting things fairly decent. Thank goodness we do tho. Even if it is hard work for awhile. Also our cooks and bakers are tops, preparing all they get in the most presentable way. Find that others about don't fuss or bother a bit, but toss it out as it comes from the cans.

Two of your letters came this morning with the pictures. I think Jackie looks more and more like my baby pictures. I just keep picturing to myself how and what its going to be like getting home again. They are wonderful daydreams. I feel so wonderful all over just thinking of it. It can't be too long anymore til the end of all this. Everything points to it.

This afternoon we play a concert over at the recreation area, they call it the open air theatre. Yesterday afternoon we went strolling thru the hospital wards again. Sort of entertaining the fellows, playing requests and a few novelties etc. They yelled like the devil when we in one ward and not the other but we can't make them all in one afternoon. Chances are if we get an opportunity will have dance band rehearsal tomorrow. Think there's another job Tuesday, a pound deal, amounts to $3.25. I think our dance band is shaping up fine, even have a couple of arrangers one arranged for Bill Carlson who played at the Trianon in Chicago for awhile and Lanny Ross the singer is a Lieutenant in Special service now.

He wants our Combo in a show of his. Whether we will play or not I don't know. Plans are now for getting us about 20 more men making the band with 80 pieces. The General would like it that way. He has approved it. What say I bring this opus to a final this time. Take ever so good care of yourself now. A hug and kiss for Jackie.

Yours forever and a day Daddy.

TOMORROW'S PROMISE...

War has brought a new appreciation of old values.

The railroads, for example. They are indispensable. Never have they meant so much to so many people.

But we in the railroad industry are not satisfied merely to be doing a good emergency job.

This war has made us realize, more than ever, the tremendous force that is under our direction—its mighty hauling power; its flexibility; its absolute indispensability to our community life, to our country, to our allies.

When the world again turns to peaceful pursuits, America's railroads will provide a post-war transportation service finer than any you have ever experienced.

For the railroads have clearly demonstrated their ability to perform and to progress. They have transported millions of additional tons of freight with no appreciable increase in rolling stock; carried millions of fighting men with but little inconvenience to essential civilian travel.

The war is still to be won, and the ROCK ISLAND is resolved to see it through. But we envision a post-war era of rail transportation that will be as gratifying as the performance of the railroads in war-time.

"WAKE UP, AMERICA!"

Should Social Security
Be Extended?

As debated by

Dr. Eduard C. Lindeman

Professor of Social Philosophy at the
New York School of Social Work,
Columbia University

Channing Pollock

Author Best-Selling Biography:
"Harvest of My Years"; Lecturer,
Internationally Known Playwright

DR. LINDEMAN OPENS: I believe in social security. Not merely because of the benefits to those insured but also because it tends to stabilize our economy. Consequently, I believe in extending social security in order to bring about greater personal and national safety. When social security is sufficiently extended so as to include the majority of citizens, it will cease to be regarded as charity. Specifically, I should like to see our social security program follow much the same pattern as proposed in the British Beveridge Plan. Following are my suggestions for extension: (1) Old age and survivors' insurance should be extended to include employees of non-profit corporations, agricultural and domestic workers and those who are self-employed, including owners of business establishments. The benefits should also be increased. (2) Sickness and disability insurance should likewise be extended to cover the entire employed population including the self-employed. (3) Unemployment insurance should be extended to include seamen, agricultural workers, employees of small business establishments and non-profit corporations. (4) Public assistance insurance should be extended so as to include all citizens who may be for any reasons ineligible for other insurance benefits or those whose insurance benefits are not adequate for maintaining a good standard of living. In addition, I should approve of immediate steps to furnish social security for all ex-servicemen and women in order to avoid serious maladjustments in the period of demobilization.

MR. POLLOCK CHALLENGES: In his scholarly book, "As We Go Marching," John T. Flynn demonstrates how surely a government's support of its citizens results in bankruptcy and Fascism. This seems the answer to Dr. Lindeman's arbitrary assumption that the process "tends to stabilize our economy." Certainly, economy cannot be stabilized by any method that reduces the incentive of employers and the self-reliance of the employed. The latter misfortune could be no more clearly indicated than by Dr. Lindeman's suggestion that government hand-outs "will cease to be regarded as charity." Many of us know from experience that when the beneficiaries cease regarding our gifts as charity their disintegration is well under way.

DR. LINDEMAN REPLIES: We were supposed to discuss the question: Should Social Security Be Extended? I say yes. Mr. Pollock not only says no, but wants existing social security abolished. I insist a comprehensive plan for social security would give stability to our economy because it would tend to prevent widespread unemployment—the need for large sums for relief purposes. Mr. Pollock thinks social security will destroy all initiative. I believe quite the contrary; namely, that a basic security will release hitherto unused energies since it will remove one of the basic causes of fear and, finally, I distinguish between two types of charity, whereas he thinks of all insurance as a form of charity. For the life of me, I cannot understand how he arrives at these conclusions.

MR. POLLOCK OPENS: Life being what it is, there is no such thing as social security. Government-operated insurance means premiums paid to the government by employer and employee, to be doled out later in sums too small for the subsistence of a self-respecting family—just large enough to reward the idleness of those who lack self-respect. The cost of administration is disproportionate, the effect on character deplorable—the chief gain is to politicians posing as altruists. The average man, under normal conditions, should put by enough to provide for his family in misfortune or old age. If he does not, no bureaucracy can prevent his being punished. It is the business of government to protect us from others. No government can protect us from the consequences of our own weakness and folly. Compulsory saving may be desirable, but I see no reason why Smith should be compelled to save for Jones. The truth is society cannot provide long for 10 or 12 million unemployed. The entire national income, equally divided, would fall far short. The Insurance Economic Society estimates the cost of an American Beveridge Plan at $15 billion a year; our whole internal revenue for 1942 was $13 billion! The government now is supposed to have a vast sum earmarked for social security; how long would it last after another industrial collapse? The nearest approach to security lies within the individual, subject to opportunities depending upon government's ceasing to monkey with buzz-saws.

DR. LINDEMAN CHALLENGES: Four distinctions bring our arguments into genuine opposition: (1) Social security takes care of only those insecurities arising from the hazards of modern civilization. There always remains enough insecurity to test the mettle of aspiring citizens. (2) The cost of a comprehensive program need not be exorbitant; if we follow the British example by combining all basic insurances in a single transaction. (3) The average man does not and cannot foresee contingencies which may eliminate his job or savings. In supposedly prosperous 1929 less than 20% of our aged persons (above 65) were entirely self-supporting. (4) The cost should not be equated with any other figure except national income. Today we enjoy a national income of at least $150 billion.

MR. POLLOCK REPLIES: Replying to Dr. Lindeman's 4 fallacies: (1) One high priest of social security said, "Only a sucker works unless he has to." Recent experience indicates there are very few suckers. (2) Government benefactions from 1932 cost from $3 to $7 for every dollar doled out—not counting the cost in corruption. (3) In 1929, we had more than 26 million motor cars—approximately one for every family. The price and maintenance of a car would provide security through dozens of existing and reputable insurance companies. (4) That national income of $150 billion has been attained by government spending of our savings through emergency taxation—the creation of a federal debt that may reach $300 billion—just as pre-war hand-outs created a debt of about $30 billion.

HANDLE YOUR TELEPHONE WITH CARE

YOUR telephone is a vital unit in the nation's communications system. With all telephone facilities still needed for war uses, many civilian requests for service cannot now be met. We are doing all we can to shorten the waiting list.

- Keep your telephone on a firm table or desk where it's not apt to be knocked to the floor.
- Avoid placing your telephone too near a desk corner where the loose cord may be caught on a knob or handle.
- Be careful to keep your telephone cord straight and even. Untwist it whenever it gets kinky.
- When washing woodwork or mopping floors, be sure not to let the cord get water-soaked. Don't leave it near an open window.
- Always replace the receiver carefully. Banging it down may break it.
- Please don't use a pencil or any other sharp point on the dial of any telephone.

ILLINOIS BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"Judge, I've had a lot of calls for that book you took out last week... 'Tell the Boys Back Home'. How did you like it?"
"Fine, Sarah, fine... it's just the kind of book I like to get hold of... I enjoyed every word of it. Wish I could have been along with the author myself... actually living with the men right on the fighting fronts. He got mighty close to them and they certainly opened up their minds and their hearts to him."

"There were lots of new things in the book I hadn't seen in any other reports from front-line writers. But there was one question the men asked the author that I have seen time and time again in these stories. That was 'Are you going to put prohibition over on us soldiers again... and without getting our vote?'"
"I noticed that, too, Judge, and I think the least we can do for those fighting men who are doing so much for us is to respect their wishes on that subject."

At the executive board meeting of the Auxiliary, Unit 526, Friday evening in the Legion hall, the committee for the refreshment stand at the Legion picnic which will be held August 6th, was appointed. Mrs. Mayme Estand is chairman and will be assisted by Mrs. Edna Doctor, Mrs. Mable Ekberg, Mrs. Elsie Yunker and Mrs. Lillian Knox. Mrs. Hilda Cox, Mrs. Olistia Margolis, Mrs. Gustie Hallinan and Mrs. Lorraine Ballou are in charge of the books on the blanket. More details later.

Miss Mae Reish's first letter from Sgt. Owen Strong since he arrived some where in the south Pacific, states that the weather is awful hot, but he is feeling fine. He misses the news from the Orland Park Herald but hopes it will catch up with him soon. His address can be furnished by Miss Reish.

Friends in Orland are sad to hear of the death of a former resident, Mrs. Elizabeth B. Koch, nee Gundermann, who passed away July 9 in her home on Princeton Ave., Chicago. She leaves to mourn besides her husband Arthur, three daughters, Mrs. Virginia Preusch, Mrs. Eileen Raschick and Mrs. Melba Johnson; two sisters, Mrs. Caroline Toppen and Agnes of Orland Park and one brother, Edward. Funeral services were conducted at the Salem Evan. church 6320, Emerald Ave., Wednesday. Interment was made at Oakwood cemetery, Chicago.

The Missionary Study Group of Methodist Church will meet Thursday afternoon July 20 in the parsonage of the Sunshine Circle of Kings-Daughters and used as her subject, "The Harwood Home for Girls". Other guests present were Mrs. G. L. Reed of Chicago and Mrs. John Frazer of Lockport.

sonage at 2 pm. All ladies of the church are invited to attend. Refreshments will be served. This meeting marks the 7th anniversary of the organization of the study group.

Members of the Community Committee met at the school Monday evening July 10 to discuss plans for a picnic which will be held the latter part of August. Watch this column for further details.

A meeting of the Orland Unit of the Cook County Bureau was held at the home of Mrs. Ray Wakeland, on Friday evening July 7. Mrs. Marie Cornelius, Cook County Home Advisor gave both the major and minor lessons of the month. The major lesson was Furniture Arrangement and each individual had an opportunity to take part in arranging furniture tastefully. The minor lesson was Home Crafts and we were all taught tatting chenille bed spreads.

We believe that the Cook County Home Bureau is one of the most worthwhile organizations that an individual can find to join. There will be no meeting in the month of August, but on Saturday evening August 5 Home Bureau members and their families are invited to a wienie roast and picnic to be held in Messenger Woods on 159 St. about 2 or 3 miles west of Wolf Rd. Each member is asked to bring enough wienies, buns and pop to supply their own family needs.

Don't forget the date, Aug. 5.

Dear Mr. Semmler:

Just a line to let you know my change of address: It is now Camp Campbell, Ky.

It sure is a swell little "sheet" and I enjoy it very much.

Strange as it sounds I get an idea of what's going on around that part of the country by reading the want ads.

Its quite warm down here and doesn't rain much but inspite of that the crops look good. Well gotta write some more letters so will close hope all of you people on the staff are OK.

As ever,

Con. Busbey's Speech On Red Menace

Mr. Speaker:

The forces of Americanism may lose the coming election, for want of getting out the truly representative American vote. This situation may be likened to the time-honored maxim which runs:

For want of a nail the shoe was lost
For want of a shoe the horse was lost,
And for want of a horse the rider was lost.

Likewise, Constitutional representative government may be lost to the American people if they do not awake.

Until recently, the Communist movement in America has been an undercover affair, carrying on its subversive activities largely in secret, and with little effect on our American form of government. This is so because their teachings are so repugnant to the free men and women of our country, that it has been found most difficult to convert people to the cause of the Communist doctrines.

Politically, the Communist Party has never been large in numbers but in recent years they have adopted the technique of infiltration into other organizations taking undue advantage of and using those organizations for their own nefarious ends. To illustrate, there are many members of the American Labor Party of New York, who are not Communists, yet they have been so indifferent to what was happening right in their own organization, that the radical Reds gained and are today in control of that organization.

Basically, the Congress of Industrial organizations, popularly known as the CIO, is a labor union, having great influence in labor circles. The great majority of members of the CIO are honest, law-abiding citizens who believe implicitly in their country, and to whom the views and beliefs of the Communists are abhorrent. Cunningly, the Communists set about to gain a foothold in this labor organization and they have succeeded in their infiltration to the point where many important offices are now filled with Communists, which insures their control of the organization known as the CIO.

Notwithstanding the great majority of membership of the CIO would never admit they could be even influenced yet so strong has become the pressure upon them that they find themselves almost powerless to oppose this control forced upon them by their leaders.

These cunning leaders have assumed such arrogance that their members are compelled by them to pay extra dues which are used to further the Communist cause politically. The amount of money thus filched from the honest, patriotic laborers is unknown, but admittedly it reaches many thousands of dollars.

I still have confidence the rank and file members of the CIO will at the proper time throw off this yoke that has been forced upon them.

To identify this movement which is becoming daily more intensive and more securely entrenched in the political fabric of the New Deal, as well as holding a threat over the success of American principles in November, we know it as the CIO Political Action Committee.

Make no mistake, the PAC has a purpose, a sinister one. What is that sinister purpose? To attain the greatest possible power and influence in and over the government of the United States.

How do they propose to attain that power and influence? By combining their Communist philosophies with the New Deal, to bring about the election of Mr. Roosevelt for his fourth term as President of the United States and a subversive Congress. Successful in this they will be forever entrenched in high places in our government structure.

This Red spectre of Communism is stalking our country from east to west, from north to south, unrecognized. But the sinister purpose is there, thriving on our unsuspecting population, particularly in communities where there are large groups of factory and industrial workers.

How may this spectre be recognized? They are well and accurately described in a recent report issued by the Special Committee on Un-American Activities, of the House of Representatives, in which it is declared "the Communists will attempt by stealth and subterfuge to do through the Political Action Committee what they have failed to do when functioning as a political party under their own name, i. e. to gain political leadership over millions of voters."

Yesterday I received a package from you and is sure was greatly appreciated here. The things you put in the package are impossible to get here it arrived in the best of condition.

I sure miss Tinley Park and all the swell people there but maybe soon we can all be home again. I'm making the best of my stay here in England, its an odd country. One thing that is hard to get used to is their money, the next is the side of the street they drive their cars on. There is very little that one can do when they do go into town on liberty here they have swell weather here at this time of the year, how is it back there? When I was in a Red Cross canteen here in one town I saw the names of two fellows from Tinley, boy was that a pleasant surprise. I receive the paper now also and that is certainly appreciated here. Well I hope you are in the best of health. I want to thank you all again for the swell package and I want to say hello to all my buddies in service. I would like to hear from a few. Well this will have to be all for this time.

Dear Friends:

For one who has not had the privilege of meeting you people its almost as hard for me to write you a letter, to tell you how much I appreciate your kindness. The package from the committee arrived today and I want to thank everyone for the much wanted vitals. Mind you this man's army does a grand job in feeding her men. Its only that I have such an enormous appetite that I'm always ready for a snack at anytime and cheese, crackers and chocolate are sure welcome for a snack just before one hits the hay.

Seeing, as I am now a citizen of Tinley Park I'll have the honor of meeting all you friends in the near future. Yes I said the very near future.

I have had the honor of meeting Emory Fulton a few years back when our division was stationed in the States. Lately I've been kept fairly busy and haven't had the opportunity to look him up.

About myself, well my wife has probably spilled all the beans necessary (hope not too much) so I'll skip it.

England I couldn't tell you very much about it only its plenty cool here for this time of year. The country, side is really beautiful and is something for the English to be proud of. As for myself, well I'm from America and one couldn't give me another country.

Again let me tell you all thanks a million.

ATTENTION! ALL HOME CANNERS!

Before you begin your 1944 canning, Good Housekeeping Magazine advises you: use the boiling-water bath method for tomatoes and fruits, only. Can all vegetables except tomatoes by the correct use of a pressure cooker to be sure of killing botulinus germs. In the last few years, cases of botulinus food poisoning have cropped up in widely different parts of the country. Buy, borrow, share a pressure cooker—but don't can low acid vegetables any other way. If you want further information, write Good Housekeeping Magazine, 959 Eighth Avenue, New York 19, N. Y.

BLITZ BACTERIA BATTALIONS BY FOLLOWING SIMPLE RULES

Victory on the home-canning front is easily won by those who understand the ruthless nature of the enemies—yeasts, moulds, and bacteria—that sneak into jars of food to cause spoilage. Usually they go into the jar on the food. Decayed spots and crevices or broken places in the skin of fruits and vegetables serve as their favorite foxholes.

Sometimes they float in on the air and at others steal a ride on a spoon or dirty dish cloth. A small battalion is easier to destroy than a large one so the first thing to consider is how to keep a jar of food from being occupied by a huge army of these detestable, microscopic organisms.

The soil of the earth, and fruits and vegetables which are stale, or over-ripe, or bruised, or broken, or dirty, or decayed, serve as headquarters for yeasts and moulds and bacteria. That is why sound, strictly fresh, home-grown produce must be chosen for canning.

Bacteria, the hardest-to-kill of the enemy group, multiply rapidly in vegetables, such as corn, peas, lima, and other shell-on beans, and are hard to kill once they are established, because the vegetables contain no natural acid to help make it easier for heat to destroy the bacteria.

Glady Kimbrough, Home Service Director for Ball Brothers Company, gives 13 rules which, if followed in every detail, will insure victory for the home canner all along the line. They are:

1. Use jars made for home-canning purposes. All home-canning jars have a name molded in the side. Jars with names or letters on the bottom only are intended as one-trip containers for factory-packed foods. They are made as thin as possible in order to hold down shipping costs. Because of this, their reuse is doubtful economy.

2. Examine every jar, cap, lid, and rubber before using. True, these are inspected before they leave the factory but many things can happen to them before (and after) they reach the home kitchen.

3. Remember that people who make things know more about them than anybody else; so use jars, caps, lids, and rubbers by the manufacturer's instructions.

4. Unless vegetables grow in your own garden or can be bought from a grocer who will gather them early in the morning of the day they are to be canned, forget about canning them. Vegetables that have had a night out of the garden are not in fit condition for canning.

5. Don't expect good results unless the vegetables are right for canning.

6. Every vegetable should be washed clean before its skin is broken. Washing away particles of dust and soil also washes away bacteria, yeasts, and moulds. Green beans and okra require special attention because the short thick nap or fuzz on them holds dust. The blossom end of okra may hold both dust and insects.

7. All non-acid vegetables should be precooked and packed hot for processing.

8. Vegetables should be packed in jars loosely enough to permit the liquid to circulate between the pieces. Food values are higher when vegetables are canned with the water in which they were precooked, provided the water is not wasted when the food is used, but the flavor, and possibly the keeping qualities, of some foods is better when they are canned in fresh boiling water.

9. Vegetables usually have better flavor if a small amount of salt is added at the time of canning, but they keep as well without it.

10. Remember that every minute wasted between the steps of preparing, packing, and processing is a minute in which bacteria grow stronger. This is particularly true of the bacteria which cause flat-sour. Flat-soured food may look good but tastes bad and often smells that way. Flat-sour can and does begin before processing if the vegetables are stale or over-ripe, or left standing two or three hours in a hot kitchen, or if the food is not cleaned, prepared, and packed right.

11. When possible, use a steam pressure cooker for processing all vegetables except tomatoes, and even use it for tomatoes if you like. But the use of a pressure cooker will not guarantee success unless it is in good condition and operated according to the manufacturer's instructions.

12. If you have no pressure cooker, process vegetables by boiling in a water-bath canner. Yes, the vegetables will keep if all rules are kept, and they will be safe to eat if they are boiled for fifteen minutes before they are tasted.

13. Never taste canned vegetables, regardless of how processed, until they have been boiled fifteen minutes. There is one type of bacterium that may get into the jar and cause spoilage which is odorless, tasteless, and dangerous. The toxin caused by these bacteria is destroyed by the fifteen minutes boiling. The boiling doesn't necessarily destroy the bacteria that cause the toxin; so left-over canned vegetables should be reboiled before serving.

COP FORESEES VICTORY WITH DEWEY-BRICKER

Republicans Unite Solidly
Behind Governors' Ticket
For Presidential Race.

By GEORGE A. BARCLAY
AMID scenes of harmony and enthusiasm that proclaimed to the nation the Republican party's unity of purpose, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York was chosen the party's wartime nominee for the presidency at the national convention in Chicago.

The delegates, whose nominating intentions had been apparent long before they assembled in Chicago, picked the 42-year-old governor by a 1056-to-1 vote. Then they made it an all-governor, East-Middle West ticket by choosing Ohio's John W. Bricker for the vice-presidential nomination. A single Wisconsin delegate, Grant Ritter, farmer of Beloit, had cast a single ballot for Gen. Douglas MacArthur for the presidency. Governor Bricker was nominated unanimously.

Wendell L. Willkie, Republican standard-bearer in 1940, was quick to congratulate Governor Dewey.

"You have one of the great opportunities of history," he told the nominee in a message sent from New York City.

Flies to Chicago.

As Franklin D. Roosevelt did in 1932, Governor Dewey flew to Chicago from Albany, New York, to deliver in person his acceptance speech to the delegates. Vast crowds surging around the Chicago Stadium hailed the nominee when he arrived from the airport. Inside the convention hall he was given a triumphant ovation that ended only when Congressman Joseph W. Martin Jr. of Massachusetts, house minority leader and permanent chairman of the convention, succeeded in gaveling silence.

Governor Dewey's speech was forthright and direct. It was received with rousing cheers by the delegates and the 25,000 citizens who thronged the convention hall to the rafters.

The nominee accepted his great new honor with a pledge to "end one-man government in America," crush Germany and Japan's will to make war and devote himself to "rewinning freedom" at home.

The New Deal administration, he told the delegates, has grown "old and tired and quarrelsome in office" and is unequal to the great, pressing problems of war and peace.

Keep High Command.

Declaring that the military conduct of the war "must remain completely out of politics," Governor Dewey said he wanted to make it "crystal clear" that any change in administration would not involve changes in the high command. Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of staff, and Adm. Ernest J. King, commander-in-chief of the U. S. fleet, are doing a "superb job," he declared and should retain their present position and responsibilities.

Governor Dewey made known unmistakably that he will stand squarely on his party's foreign declaration and brook no postwar international plan that contemplates a super-state. He did envision, however, American participation with other sovereign nations in a co-operative effort to prevent future wars.

He pledged that he will make full employment a first objective of national policy. He declared the New Deal had never had an employment policy and finally got people to work only after the country had entered the war.

High interest had centered in the platform-building job on which the drafting committee headed by Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio had toiled. Special attention was focused on the controversial foreign policy plank which had offered the only issue capable of producing a rousing inter-party battle.

The result, however, was a compromise—a middle-of-the-road statement calculated to conciliate internationalist and pro-nationalist elements in the party at the same time. This foreign policy plank favors American participation in postwar security measures through "organized international cooperation," but shuns membership in a World State.

In sessions of the platform committee preceding the presentation of its report, the governors of 15 states had sought to have more positive and binding commitments on postwar international collaboration included. Their views had the vigorous support of Wendell Willkie. But the prospects of any convention-floor battle quickly faded when the delegates shouted their acceptance of the platform without any audible dissent.

Republican Party's Choice

GOV. THOMAS E. DEWEY OF NEW YORK

Hail Dewey Leadership.

The convention's action on foreign policy as well as on other planks in the platform confirmed the view that the Republican party will look to Governor Dewey for decisive leadership. For the delegates left to the nominee the responsibility for interpreting the platform and translating its planks into a definite program.

The platform's statements urging safeguards for the trenchment and expansion of American farming, industry, commerce and labor were expressions of traditional Republican doctrine.

The farm plank, for instance, recommended what it calls an "American market price" as opposed to subsidies, at the same time leaving the door open for aid from the government when and as needed. It promises the American farmer abundant production of food and fiber crops. It proclaims the need of guaranteeing farmers "freedom from regimentation and confusing government manipulation and control of farm programs."

Realistically enough, the farm plank gives heed to the fact that new surpluses might develop in the postwar world, with markets declining, and it endorses the principle of crop adjustment only in times when surpluses to be dealt with are judged to have become abnormal and to have exceeded "manageable proportions."

Domestic Objectives.

In the field of domestic policy, the platform enunciates a number of objectives. These include "taking the government out of competition with private industry" and promotion of fullest employment through private enterprise.

The platform pledges full support in restoring small business to a profitable basis by elimination of "excessive and repressive regulations and government competition."

Decentralization of government controls, return to constitutional government, abolition of "wasteful government spending," protection of the rights of "free American labor"—of which the party proclaims itself the "historical champion"—all are given their place in the program which the Republican party seeks to effectuate.

The labor plank is paced by a vigorous denunciation of the New Deal administration of labor laws.

Gov. Warren's Keynote Address.

Governor Warren's keynote address was a vigorous performance. He listed these objectives of the party:

"To get the boys back home again—victorious and with all speed.
"To open the door for all Americans—to open, not just to jobs, but to opportunity.

"To make and guard the peace so wisely and so well that this time will be the last time that American homes are called on to give their sons and daughters to the agony and tragedy of war."

Elaborating on the principle of providing jobs as well as opportunity, Governor Warren declared that the formula lay in stimulating production to full blast, in a climate favorable to free enterprise.

After accepting the permanent convention chairmanship, Representative Martin ripped into the New Deal ideology, which, he said, "... lives upon vast streams of government debt, and taking its shapes and destinies from the directives of a bureaucratic elite under the command of a self-inspired leader."

"The first thing the Republican party will do when it comes into power will be to restore to congress its responsibility and function as the people's special instrument of control over their government," Martin said.

Herbert Hoover Speaks.

As the party's elder statesman versed in international affairs because of his experience as Allied food administrator during the first

GOV. JOHN W. BRICKER

World War, Herbert Hoover took up the question of foreign policy, saying:

"It is obvious from the rise of nationalism that ideas of world supergovernment, no matter how idealistic, are already dead... Peace must be based upon cooperation between independent, sovereign nations."

Speaks for Women.

Speaking for the women, Rep. Clare Boothe Luce of Connecticut raised the question of the U. S. doughboy's wants in the future.

"G. I. Joe wants his country to be secure, from here out..." she declared.

"If Jim could stand here and talk to you, he'd say:

"Listen, folks, the past wasn't perfect. But skip it. Get on with the business of making this old world better.

"... We come to choose a president who need not apologize for the mistakes of the past, but who will redeem them, who need not explain G. I. Jim's death, but will justify it..."

Bricker Stirs Delegates.

The honor of nominating Governor Dewey for the presidency went to Gov. Dwight Griswold of Nebraska. Governor Bricker who had withdrawn his own candidacy seconded the nomination with an eloquent speech in which he declared he was "more interested in defeating the New Deal philosophy of absolutism than being president of the United States," so he was asking the Ohio delegation to cast its vote for Governor Dewey.

AFTER the collapse of Primo Carnera at the hands of Max Baer, right and left, it was generally conceded that the day of the mammoths and the mastodons was about over. Joe Louis, ranging from 201 to 205 pounds, was figured to be the ideal heavyweight make-up.

Then Billy Conn at 174 almost overtook Louis. This was another crack at the pachyderms in favor of faster-moving animals. But apparently you can't keep these dinosaurs out of the picture. The troglodytes keep beating back.

A few days ago I took this matter up with Damon Runyon, then recuperating swiftly in his hotel suite, when who should drop in but Eddie Walker? And who should Eddie Walker be talking about except Big Ben Moroz.

It seems that Big Ben Moroz is a Ukrainian, born in Philadelphia 23 years ago. Big Ben is seven feet, two inches tall and he happens to weigh 293 pounds. He is over six inches taller than Carnera and some 25 pounds heavier.

Eddie Walker says that Moroz looks good in a gymnasium, that he moves around neatly and punches very well. He also admits there is some room for improvement and that Big Ben won't be rushed until he seems to be ready, which probably won't be tomorrow or the day after. A day later we ran across Good Time Charlie Friedman who had a Chinaman in tow, also seven feet in height, also weighing close to 300 pounds.

Good Time Charlie is the prospector who dug up Carnera, using a derrick for this purpose. It might not be a bad idea to match Good Time Charlie's Chinaman against Big Ben Moroz and let nature take its course.

A Few Ring Giants

The two heavyweight giants who reached the top were Jess Willard and Primo Carnera.

Willard, around 6 feet 6 in height, weighed in the general neighborhood of 260 pounds the day he met Dempsey, 25 years ago this July Fourth.

But the most mastodontic of all heavyweights was an Ottawa Negro by the name of Henry Johnson who scrambled around from 1898 to 1900—who was well over 7 feet tall and something over 300 pounds in weight.

Weight, however, can be an overplayed proposition. One of the fights I ever saw came about in the meeting of Jess Willard and Carl Morris. Their total displacement ran a trifle over 500 pounds and on that night neither could have beaten a good welterweight.

Fitzsimmons, weighing at the time around 165 pounds, came close to killing Ed Dunkhorst at 300 pounds, almost tearing his face away with a single punch.

The most active big man I've ever seen in the ring was Jim Jeffries. This was around 1903. At that time Jeff weighed 215 pounds. He could run the 100 yards in the immediate neighborhood of 10 seconds and he could high jump nearly 6 feet.

Corbett and Tunney

Jim Corbett and Gene Tunney, at their best, were about the same weight and height—slightly over 6 feet, weighing close to 185 pounds.

Billy Conn at the same weight with the speed and skill he always carried along would have been one of the best. Even as it was, Conn packed his full share of poison.

It was the general verdict among the old timers that Jess Willard at his peak was the best of all the mastodons, who weighed above 250 pounds. Willard could have been one of the best of all the heavyweights if he had made any attempt to keep in condition after the Jack Johnson fight, where he worked himself down to 245 pounds. But Willard would take no advice from any one, and he was never smart enough to handle himself.

And strange as it may seem, I'd rather hate to think what would have happened to Willard and Carnera, both heavyweight champions, if either had ever run across Harry Greb at 160 or 165 pounds. It is my belief that Harry Greb, outweighed by more than 100 pounds, would have wrecked both Willard and Carnera in less than five rounds.

By that round the fast-hitting Greb would have had both fighters blinded, their faces a sight.

Football or Boxing

Question: "Which is the toughest or the hardest game, football or boxing? Sergeant L.D.H., England."

The toughest game in the world is the ring game, especially among the heavyweights. Few football players have ever gotten anywhere as ring fighters. In the last ten years, football has known many hundreds of stars. But in the last 40 years the ring has known only 10 or 12 star heavyweights. You are on your own in the ring. In football you have 10 other husky mates to help you.

To the People of this Community

There will be a feeling of shame in this community if we find ourselves short of the mark when the Fifth War Loan comes to an end July 8.

We will not permit that to happen here, especially if we look around in our homes and our places of employment and see the shadows of relatives and friends who today are in the midst of bloody battle for us.

We cannot emphasize too strongly that regardless of the size of the oversubscription of our community quota, the Fifth War Loan will be a flat failure for you if you do not exceed anything you have done in the past in War Bond buying.

In this invasion hour our fighting men have a right to demand that you make your record contribution to the success of a war loan.

The slogan, Back the Attack—Buy More Than Before, is not merely a catch phrase. It expresses the cold facts about invasion. Unless we make the supreme effort to do everything humanly possible either at our work benches or in our homes with our sweat, our blood and our dollars we hand over our share of the burden to our fighting men.

MAKE YOUR OWN CANNING EQUIPMENT

Be determined to do your part toward saving food, canning equipment or no canning equipment. Don't glibly use the shortage of equipment as an excuse for not getting busy and filling those pantry shelves with jars of non-rationed food, put up just the way your family likes it best.

You will do well to follow the advice of Gladys Kimbrough, Home Service Director for Ball Brothers Company. To all who lament the lack of canning conveniences she suggests: "It is true that a skilled workman requires good tools but when he can't buy what he needs, he makes the best use of what he has and makes what he hasn't."

A few of Miss Kimbrough's suggestions for home-made canning equipment are illustrated in the photograph above. They are:

1. A lard can to use as a water-bath canner. A pail, sirup bucket, wash boiler, or any other container in which water can be boiled, will serve, provided it is twelve or more inches deep.
2. Funnel. This was made from a No. 10 tin can.
3. A rack or platform to fit in the bottom of the canner. Make by tacking strips of odorless wood together.
4. Coal tongs (part of fire set) make good jar lifter.
5. Strong string looped (slip hitch) around neck of jar. Use when neither jar lifter nor tongs can be found.
6. Wire basket to hold the jars while they are in the canner. Made from a scrap of wire mesh. (Poultry wire will do.)
7. Wooden paddle for stirring apple butter, chili sauce, etc. Whittled from hard wood. Wooden spoons can be made in same manner.

This year the government is releasing more metal for the manufacture of canning equipment. Production and distribution may make it unnecessary for the housewife to assemble home-made equipment, but it can be done and done easily.
